

The Ribbit Paper

One Small Hop for The Frog (rev6)

Short Version
Edition 2026-11-12 | English edited 2026-11-22
PDF built 2026-11-22 from the published-page source.

Evidence dates are attached to individual records. An editorial refresh does not refresh historical balances or complete pending checks.

The frogs who kept the lights on

Community record

How $ROBIN holders rebuilt the Pond.

Come on in. Come to the Pad. This is where the memes are. Pull up with a bag of $ROBIN and meet the frogs who kept the lights on.

$ROBIN started as a meme token on Robinhood Chain. When the original team went quiet, the holders who stayed opened a moderated Telegram and rebuilt the website and social channels. On October 15 they announced the community takeover on X. By November, the same account was telling their story in “Those Who Stayed.” That’s the Pond in a nutshell. The folks who stayed made room for the next frog.

Sources

- October 15 community takeover announcement 2026-10-15
- Those Who Stayed 2026-11-08
- November 5 update on rebuilding the Pond 2026-11-05

The frog has range

Tentative

Robin drops a track, and the timeline smells like bananas.

On the Robin X account, an update about rebuilding the Pond sits a few posts away from an ad for frog cologne. That’s Dolce Bannana, Eau de Pond, in case you’re shopping for a bear.

Then Robin gets the mic. He spits over the beat on “We Are Born in the Trenches,” a banger about where he came from. The Lily Pad Show’s third episode is out, and more are already in the works.

Sources

- Dolce Bannana (Eau de Pond) 2026-11-08
- Robin’s track release on X 2026-11-08
- Listen to We Are Born in the Trenches 2026-11-08

See you at the Pond

Community record

Meet the holders and pass along a meme that made you laugh.

Start with Robin on X for the memes and updates, then hop into Telegram and say hi. You’ll meet the holders who stuck around and the new frogs who found their way here through a post somebody sent them.

If a meme gets you, send it to a friend. If you make one of your own, drop it in the chat. And if a new frog asks where everybody is, point them to the Pond. There’s room.

Sources

- Robin on X 2026-11-12
- Community Telegram preview 2026-11-10

A quick look at $ROBIN

Community record

The Pons launch, locked liquidity, and the paper’s circulating-supply estimate.

A billion $ROBIN were minted at launch through Pons. The token graduated to a Uniswap v4 ROBIN/USDG pool on September 5, 2026, and the original liquidity position went directly to the Pons locker.

The November 12 snapshot puts estimated circulating supply at about 942.8 million ROBIN. The paper subtracts the dead-wallet balance from the contract’s supply and counts the separate 81.6 million ROBIN in the Pons locker in that estimate. The Full Paper has the records for the launch, lock, and burns.

- Token supply & launch
- Liquidity & lock
- Burn wallet proof

Sources

- Token contract 2026-11-10
- Graduation transaction and lock events 2026-09-05
- Uniswap v4 position NFT #1927221 2026-11-10
- November 12 supply snapshot 2026-11-12

• Full Paper supply and burn records 2026-11-12

Where to find Robin

Community record

Find community posts, join the chat, and check the project links.

Follow Robin on X for public updates and original work. Join the moderated Telegram to meet the people building the Pond. Start with the Ribbit Paper for project history and links to the on-chain records.

Robin community website · 2026-11-12

Sources

• Robin on X 2026-11-12

• Community Telegram preview 2026-11-10

• The Ribbit Paper 2026-11-12

How the Pond handles funds

Community record

Community wallet approvals and the open fee request.

It takes four of six signers to approve a payment from the community wallet. Robin’s emergency feather budget will have to make its case. The team asked Pons to send future creator fees to that wallet. As of November 10, the fees were still set to go to a different wallet.

Community donation wallet on Robinhood Chain

0xe819a04f918d0e07fc1dbdb400618018ab2f70a5 · View on Blockscout

To follow the money, open the wallet on Blockscout. For each expense, pair the transaction link with what it paid for and a receipt or a link to the finished work. Even an outlaw keeps receipts.

Expense receipts

• Short documentary-style film production
2026-11-08 · 0.57 SOL (≈ US$50.77)
Source: supplied payment record. Transaction link pending.

Sources

• CTO treasury Safe 2026-11-10

• Robinhood Chain snapshot block 111,444,715 2026-11-10

Latest English text: https://ribbitpaper.com/condensed
Edition and translation status: ribbitpaper.com/reference